HHTM Releases Results of Fall 2020 Audiologist Survey

Published January 17th, 2021

Hearing Health & Technology Matters

Hearing Health & Technology Matters (HHTM), a leading online resource for hearing professionals and consumers with hearing loss, has released the results of its November 2020 Audiologist Survey.

The online survey of audiologists in the United States was conducted between November 20th to 30th, 2020.

Approximately 368 audiologists completed the 14-question survey.

Exploring Attitudes and Trends

In a follow-up to the organization's January 2020 audiology survey, the November survey takes a closer look at the impact COVID-19 has had on clinical practice and attitudes among audiologists in the US.

Additionally, the survey also explores current demand for telehealth services, as well as opinions on OTC hearing aids.
