Other People’s Ideas

Published March 5th, 2017

Audiologists know all things about hearing and our ears – or at least that's what is expected from us with our patients, friends, and family. The content of “Other People's Ideas this month” is a little food for thought. The blogs included below focus on a range of topics that all coincide with our hearing or our ears. The blogs will hopefully provide some extra material for your next patient encounter or family/friend gathering!
